

New Charges
Against Hoffa

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A federal grand jury indicted Teamster President James R. Hoffa and six others Thursday on charges of conspiring and attempting to influence the jury in his trial here last winter on charges accepting illegal payments from a Detroit truck firm.

Hoffa, 49, was charged with "aiding, commanding and inducing" specific attempts to influence two jurors and a prospective juror to vote for his acquittal in exchange for money or favors.

The nine-week trial ended last Dec. 23 in a mistrial, with the jury reporting it was hopelessly deadlocked.

Whoop It Up
For Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP) Republicans whooped it up Thursday night for Barry Goldwater, jet-propelled conservative, and slammed the Kennedy administration as a slopshock regime.

The occasion was a $1,000-a-plate dinner honoring the Arizona senator for his years of work as chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee. In that post, which he gave up this year, he raked in countless dollars for the party, and otherwise supported the cause.

Report Of Pope's
Cancer Persists

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Reports that Pope John XXIII has cancer revived Thursday his health continued to cause concern at the Vatican.

The Pope's doctor, Prof. Antonio Gasbarri, who has denied similar reports in the past, said he could not comment.

"I can say nothing about it," he said, "I am bound by professional secrecy."

Gasbarri came to Rome on Wednesday night from his home in Bologna.

There were unconfirmed reports Wednesday that Pope John had a brief relapse Tuesday from his serious illness of last November.

Delaware Flow
Causes Concern

TRENTON, N. J., (AP)—Concern over a possible prolonged drought in the Delaware River Basin prompted a special meeting of federal officials here Thursday.

James F. Wright, executive director of the Delaware River Basin Commission, said the Delaware River's flow is down to the same level recorded a year ago at the start of a drought then.

He said the New York City reservoirs of Pepacton and Neversink in the Upper Delaware Basin are at 46 per cent of capacity, the lowest level since their construction.

Attending today's meeting were representatives of the U. S. Public Health Service, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, U. S. Weather Bureau, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U. S. Geological Survey, and the Philadelphia City Water Department.

Catasauqua Boy
Gunshot Victim

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Dennis Walck, 12, of nearby West Catasauqua, was accidentally shot and killed Thursday night by a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle which misfired, Whitehall Township Police reported.

Walck was struck on the right side of the head at Davis Camp in Catasauqua.

Police said Walck was riding his bicycle at the dump when two boys unsuccessfully seeking groundhogs, began firing into the dump. Ronald Bethold, 16, of Fullerton, ejected a shell from his rifle and it misfired when he tried to put on the safety latch. Police were told.

Scranton Hopeful
On Sales Tax Plan

HARRISBURG — (AP) Gov. Scranton viewed the legislative situation as "well in hand" Thursday and expressed optimism about the outlook for passage of a tax program.

Responding at his weekly news conference to former Gov. David L. Lawrence's charge that the Republican "Old Guard" has taken over, Scranton said "the Republican Party is better united today than at any time in recent history."

"I think the possibility of passage (of a tax program) is better than it has been in some time," he said. About the outlook for his legislative program, Scranton added:

"I think if the tax problem is solved, most of the other things are well in hand, with a few exceptions, and the legislature could move swiftly."

Asked about the few exceptions, Scranton said:

Newsmen pointed out that House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson said this week that he lacked but one of the 106 votes needed to pass a tax program built around an increase in the 4 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent.

Success Predicted

Johnson also predicted that he would have 107 votes when the 5 per cent proposal is put to a final vote, tentatively set for Tuesday.

"I haven't counted noses — or heads," was Scranton's response.

He said he hadn't received a report from Johnson.

In other matters, Governor Scranton made these comments:

Presidency—"I've made it very clear that I'm not a candidate for either the presidency or the vice presidency (in 1964)," Scranton said. "It's crystal clear."

Report
On Tocks
Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Budget Bureau has completed its assembling of departmental reports concerning a proposal to establish a Tocks Island national recreation area on the Upper Delaware River, the office of Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., was informed Thursday.

The reports, a Walter aide said, came from the Interior, Agriculture and Defense Departments.

Meanwhile, the aide said, Walter has been assured by Chairman Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., of the House Interior Committee, that hearings on a bill to authorize establishment of the recreation area will be held as soon as the Budget Bureau completes its report on the proposal.

The proposed area would surround the reservoir to be created by construction of the Tocks Island dam, largest single project in long range plans to develop the Delaware River valley.

Ike's Wife Has Tumor Removed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former first lady Mamie Eisenhower is in Walter Reed Army Hospital, where she had a small, benign tumor removed from her neck.

The hospital confirmed that Mrs. Eisenhower has been a patient since Monday. It said:

"Mrs. Eisenhower entered Walter Reed general hospital Monday, May 6, for one of her routine physical examinations. At this time a small lipoma—a fatty tumor—was removed from the back of her neck.

"This is a benign tumor. She is making a good recovery and is expected to leave the hospital in a few days."

A benign tumor is one that is not malignant, or cancerous.

No Strip Mining Deal

Strip Mining—The inference of Lawrence that he made a deal with bituminous strip mine operators "is an old saw." "It's absolutely untrue," Scranton added. "I made no agreement with any strip mine groups."

Court Reform — More judges might help clear up backlogs in state courts, he said, but "it could be that reforms, particularly in Philadelphia, would help." Scranton suggested Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandrini would know more about that subject.

Roosevelt-Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's recent remarriage is the New York state executive's own personal business, Scranton said, when asked to assess the remarriage's effect on Rockefeller's political future.

"I still think he's a leading contender for the nomination, as several other people are," Scranton said.

Cooper Space Flight
Planned Next Week

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper's scheduled 34-hour journey through space next week should reap a harvest of medical data on man's ability to perform during extended weightless flight.

In outlining plans for Cooper's planned 22-orbit mission, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration listed Thursday a number of medical checks and experiments in the flight profile.

Several scientific studies also are planned.

The space agency set next Tuesday as the earliest possible launching date. The Atlas booster rocket is scheduled to blaze skyward between 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time.

If the 36-year-old Air Force major completes the full route, he will land in the Pacific Ocean 30 miles southeast of Midway Island 34 hours, 19 minutes later—between 6:19 p.m. and 8:49 p.m. EST the day after lift-off.

Officials said a major objective of the flight will be "verification that man can function in space as a primary system aboard the spacecraft for an extended period of time." The medical checks also will evaluate the adequacy of the life-support system.

As Cooper's "Faith 7" spacecraft goes round and round the globe, medical monitors at 23 ground and ship-based tracking stations will keep close watch for any signs of stress. They will collect mountains of data on blood pressure, temperature, respiration, heartbeat, etc.

Several eating, water-drinking and rest periods are scheduled to maintain the astronaut's energy reserves for the demanding flight. Cooper is to sleep for eight hours from the 9th through the 15th orbits. After waking, he may take a stimulant to insure alertness the remainder of the mission.

An oral thermometer, installed in the helmet, will be used for the first time on a Mercury flight. It will replace a rectal thermometer used previously.

Four times during flight Cooper is to take urine samples from a collecting container inside his space suit and deposit them in vials kept in honeycomb sections of the capsule cabin.

The vials will be marked with the time the samples were taken so that postflight examination will note any buildup of calcium deposits.

Soviet Findings

After Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich orbited for four and three days last August, Soviet scientists noted an increase of calcium in their urine. This possibly was due to lack of exercise and therefore reduced interaction of the bones, causing interruption of normal calcium replacement of the bone structure.

Cooper is scheduled to exercise during the second and seventh orbits by pulling on a bungee cord—a sort of giant rubber band—attached to the spacecraft floor to introduce strategic missiles into Cuba.

The Cuban army apparently remains about as big as before the crisis, the report said, listing 75,000 regulars, 10,000 in militia and 100,000 in the form of a home guard.

They quoted intelligence estimates that the Soviet air force has some 42 modern, supersonic MIG-21 jet fighters in Cuba.

"It is conceded that the combined Soviet and Cuban forces now in the island are quite powerful defensively and could offer severe opposition to any attack," the report said.

"They are admittedly capable of

WAY TO EVEREST IS SLICK—Members of the American expedition which conquered Mt. This is among the first expedition pictures to reach the United States from the Everest area. It was released in Washington May 8.

On Site Inspection
Needed For Check

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said Thursday that U.S. intelligence chiefs admit "there is reason for grave concern" that Soviet long-range missiles and bombers may be hidden in Cuban caves.

"Even though the intelligence community believes that all have been withdrawn," the probes said, "it is of the greatest urgency to determine whether or not strategic missiles now are concealed in Cuba."

Absolute assurances can come only from "penetrating and continuing on-site inspection by reliable observers," they told the Senate. Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has refused to permit such inspection. The United States relies mostly on aerial surveillance of the island.

The Senate Preparedness subcommittee also said that, despite President Kennedy's estimate that the total of Soviet troops may have dropped to about 12,000, the intelligence community still uses 17,500 as the current estimate.

Report Of Exiles

This, the senators said, is "perhaps a minimum figure." They noted anti-Castro Cuban exile reports that as many as 40,000 Soviet troops now are in Cuba.

"Admittedly, there could have been undetected arrivals at smaller ports, where it is known that cargo ships have repeated their prior practice of unloading at night under conditions of strict Soviet-imposed security," the Senate group said.

"In any event—the intelligence community does not believe it yet has sufficient concrete evidence to estimate any reduction in overall Soviet military capability on the island."

The bipartisan six-member subcommittee issued a security-conscious interim report on its secret questioning of Central Intelligence Agency leaders and military intelligence chiefs. More reports will come later, it said.

In essence, the 34-page report was considerably less than a vote of confidence in U.S. intelligence. While it contained some mild praise, there was a thread of criticism and skepticism throughout.

'Substantial Errors'

Saying "a reasonably competent job was done" in collecting information, the subcommittee said "it appears that several substantial errors were made by the intelligence agencies in the evaluation" of the data.

"There seems to have been a disinclination on the part of the intelligence community to accept and believe the ominous portent of the information which had been gathered," the senators said.

The report suggested the analysts were slow in accepting the fact that there were Soviet missiles on the island because they were "strongly influenced by their philosophical judgment that it would be contrary to Soviet policy to introduce strategic missiles into Cuba."

The Cuban army apparently remains about as big as before the crisis, the report said, listing 75,000 regulars, 10,000 in militia and 100,000 in the form of a home guard.

They quoted intelligence estimates that the Soviet air force has some 42 modern, supersonic MIG-21 jet fighters in Cuba.

"It is conceded that the combined Soviet and Cuban forces now in the island are quite powerful defensively and could offer severe opposition to any attack," the report said.

"They are admittedly capable of suppressing any internal rebellion or revolt mounted without external support, and it is clear that an invasion from without, to have a fair chance of success, would require large forces, extensive airborne landing efforts and adequate air cover."

The intelligence chiefs do not believe that the Communist forces in Cuba now present "a direct aggressive military threat to the United States or Latin America," the senators said.

But they made plain they are not ready to go along all the way on this, saying: "Strategic weapons may or may not be now in Cuba. We can reach no conclusion on this because of the lack of conclusive evidence."

The report made no detailed recommendations but said, "Our general recommendation at this time is that an alert vigilance be maintained over all activities taking place in Cuba."

Speaking for himself, subcommittee Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., told the Senate: "The No. 1 priority of our national and foreign policy should and must be the complete removal of all Russians from Cuba and the adoption of a firm and hard line which will rid our hemisphere of this threat once and for all."

Agreement On Two Points
Reached In Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A limited agreement on Negro demands for desegregation in Birmingham was reached Thursday by a biracial committee, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. announced.

The Negro leader said the agreement embraced two of the four points the Negroes have been demanding for during the past month.

They are for desegregation of some facilities in the downtown stores, and improving job opportunities for Negroes.

"We have reached agreement on points one and two," King said. "But I am not at liberty to reveal details of the agreement."

The other two points in the integration leaders' demands were for dismissal of charges against some 2,400 Negroes who have been jailed for demonstrating, and for the formation of an official committee, composed of Negroes and white persons, to deal with the racial problems.

At the news conference where the announcement was made, another Negro leader, the Rev. Dr. Ralph Abernathy, said that as a result of the agreement, there would be no further street demonstrations Thursday.

The truce extends until Friday morning, Abernathy said.

The biracial committee was to resume talks Thursday night to try to hammer out an agreement on the other two points.

Of this meeting, King said: "This is really the last time, if it doesn't work out we will have to demonstrate."

Abernathy broke in to say, "We will demonstrate if we do not have a settlement."

He said 1,000 Negro youths are ready to go back into the streets to press for their demands.

The statements at the news conference left the situation still cloudy.

The biracial committee has no official standing. The white members, who have remained carefully anonymous, are believed to be businessmen, civic leaders, and possibly some clergymen.

Police Object

Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor immediately opposed dismissing charges against those arrested for demonstrating.

Connor told an Associated Press reporter: "If they want to integrate the lunch counters downtown, I'm not going to stop them. That's their business."

He added: "The negotiators, whoever they may be, cannot make agreements for me."

Left in doubt, therefore, was the question of whether an agreement on the two unsettled points would carry any authority with Connor—and perhaps even with the downtown merchants.

Some merchants have said previously that they could not desegregate facilities in the stores because it would violate the city's segregation laws.

Moreover, King said at the news conference: "We want all four (of their demands). We will test nothing."

In effect, the Negro leaders set a new deadline for resuming the demonstrations in the event no accord is reached on the other two points—10 a.m. Friday.

"If the demonstrations are resumed," Abernathy said, "they will be much more massive and larger than before."

He said some of the details of the agreement reached on two points were for desegregation of lunch counters, sitting rooms and rest rooms in downtown stores. The second point means "upgrading" employment opportunities for Negroes.

Disputes JFK Statement

King said President Kennedy was mistaken when he said, in a news conference Wednesday, there have been no violations of civil rights laws in Birmingham. The President said that, therefore, there were no grounds for federal intervention here.

Police Chief Jamie Moore was not available for comment but a desk sergeant said Gregory's charges were "a wild story."

Haiti Gives OAS
New Assurances

NEW YORK (AP)—Striving to keep peace in the Caribbean, the Organization of American States obtained new assurances Thursday from Haiti that the sanctuary of Haitian refugees in Port au Prince embassies will be respected.

Gonzalo Facio of Costa Rica, head of the OAS council, reported on his talks with Haitians in New York before returning to Washington with the organization's investigation committee.

In Washington, the committee arranged to hear a report from the chairman, Alberto Zuleta Angel of Colombia, who was returning from the Dominican Republic.

It was an invasion of the Dominican Embassy in Port au Prince on April 26 by Haitian militia that caused the two neighbors to break diplomatic relations and raise the threat of war.

Facio told reporters in New York he had met with Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers of Haiti, who flew to the United Nations to press Haiti's charges of Dominican aggression before the U.N. Security Council.

Facio said Chalmers promised to take steps to insure the safety of the Haitians in foreign embassies in Port au Prince, but there was no definite guarantee they would be given safe conduct out of the country.

The Dominican Republic has charged that the invading Haitian militiamen were looking for 22 brothers of President Francisco Duvalier.

Ler who had taken refuge in the Dominican Embassy. President Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic has threatened armed action if such an incident is repeated.

Facio said he also impressed on Chalmers that the OAS committee is concerned about Haitians in the Colombian Embassy. Colombia took over diplomatic matters for the Dominican Republic after the break in diplomatic relations.

The OAS committee was sent to Haiti and the Dominican Republic last week to investigate the incident at the Dominican Embassy.

The OAS in Washington broadened the powers of the committee Wednesday, and Facio said it will return to the two countries within the next few days.

Facio said the new powers given the committee will permit it to investigate the internal situation in Haiti to the extent that this has a bearing on the safety of the refugees in the embassies.

This was an obvious reference to the threat of a bloodbath in the Negro republic within a week.

Duvalier has announced he will hold power after his constitutional term expires May 15. And his foes, who are active underground despite repression, have sworn to assassinate him if he does. Duvalier has in turn threatened to pile Port au Prince high with corpses if an attempt is made to overthrow him.

Ailing Walter Visited By JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy made an unscheduled noon hour trip to Georgetown University Hospital Thursday to visit ailing Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa.

Kennedy drove to the hospital after speaking at a Labor Department ceremony sponsored by the National Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

Walter, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has been in the hospital for several days for treatment of a respiratory ailment.

An associate said Walter and the President talked about past political campaigns.

Walter has been in and out of the hospital for several months.

An associate said Walter's condition "is very bad."

Rush Awards Go To Two Women

HARRISBURG (AP)—A Scranton housewife and an Allentown women's civic organization were presented Thursday with the Pennsylvania Medical Society's 1963 Benjamin Rush Awards.

Mrs. Samuel R. Dimer received the society's individual award for her work with the blind in the Scranton area during the last 18 years.

Mrs. Dimer has specialized in translating books into braille and also teaches braille. Included in her translations is Homer's "Iliad."

The group winner was the Junior Aides of the Allentown Hospital for their efforts in contributing $84,000 since 1963 to the hospital. The women also were cited for their volunteer work at the institution.

The awards are presented each year by the society in memory of the late Dr. Rush, a Philadelphia physician who signed the Declaration of Independence and served as physician-general in George Washington's Revolutionary Army.

Lippi Defense Called 'Thin'

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Opposing attorneys completed their closing arguments Thursday with scathing attacks on each other's testimony in the income tax evasion trial of two Luzerne County mining companies and four individuals.

John Burke, special deputy U.S. attorney general, called the defense case "as thin as soup cooked from the wing of a pigeon who has starved to death."

Defense Attorney Edwin Kosik fired back with the reply that the government's entire case is built on the testimony of a "psychopathic liar" who wants to get even with union leader August J. Lippi, one of the defendants.

The proceedings also were spiced by the threat of a contempt of court citation against defense attorney Todd Maguire, one of two counsel for the corporate defendants.

Federal Judge William J. Nealon issued the warning to Maguire after overruling an objection by his uncle, Arthur A. Maguire, to Burke's closing arguments.

"I've taken the last of your mumbled, grumbling and gestures when I make a ruling," Nealon admonished the younger Maguire.

On trial in U.S. District Court are the Avon and Pooley Mining Companies of Wyoming, Pa.; Lippi, president of the United Mine-workers Union District 1; Robert L. Dougherty Sr., ex-president of the two companies, and Frank Cardoni and Leonard Stankiewicz, former Lippi aides.

The 6½ week-old trial is expected to go to the jury Friday after Nealon delivers his charge.

Compromise Plan For Stadium

PITTSBURGH—A much-debated proposal to build a sports stadium in Pittsburgh cleared a major hurdle Thursday in the person of Allegheny County commissioner John E. McGrady.

The Democratic commissioner, who had teamed with fellow Democrat William D. McClelland to block approval of financial arrangements for the stadium, said he would vote in favor of a compromise plan.

McGrady's "yes" vote at next Tuesday's regular meeting of the three county commissioners would put the county's stamp of approval on the $45 million redevelopment and stadium project.

Republican Commissioner John M. Walker has been trying for weeks to get the plan dropped. McClelland has consistently asked that the Pirates baseball team put more money into the project on the city's North Side.

Pennsylvanians In Washington State A-Energy Unit Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposal to create a Pennsylvania Atomic Energy Authority to promote research and development in that field in the Keystone State is unopposed by spokesmen for the coal industry.

Representatives of both management and labor in the coal mining industry said they have no objection to the state's sponsoring such experimentation in the atomic energy field.

The proposal was listed by former Rep. James E. Van Zandt of Altoona, Pa., as one of a series of measures drawn up by the administration of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania in a drive to obtain new industry and get more defense work in the state.

Van Zandt, Scranton's liaison man in Washington with the federal government, said a bill to create the proposed State Atomic Energy Authority will be pushed in the General Assembly at Harrisburg.

A spokesman for the National Coal Association, representing coal mine operators here, told a newsman that his organization is opposed to government subsidies for plants producing atomic power in competition with coal-produced power. But, he said, it is not opposed to research.

Takes Similar View
A United Mine Workers spokesman said his labor organization takes a similar view.

"We have no objection to research or experimentation," he said, "but we do object to subsidizing power plants."

The Atomic Energy Commission lists these current atomic energy activities in Pennsylvania:

The Duquesne Power & Light Co. plant at Shippingport; the Saxton, Pa., Nuclear Experimental Corp., near Altoona; The Pennsylvania State University nuclear reactor at State College; the Westinghouse test reactor at Waltz Mill, with two critical experiments; the Bettis atomic power plant at Pittsburgh, six critical experiments, and the Philadelphia Electric Co. power plant, under construction at Peach Bottom, York County.

PRESIDENT AND Mrs. Kennedy have greatly improved and lived up the annual White House reception for members of Congress, reports Rep. John C. Kunkel, R-Pa.

"Less Stuffy"
"They have made them much less stuffy and much more fun," said Kunkel.

He said that during his terms in Congress between 1939 and 1961 the custom was for Congress members and their wives to line up and wait to shake hands with the President.

Now, said Kunkel, a member walks in, talks with friends as he finds them, dances if he wishes, and greets the President and First Lady informally sometime during the evening.

Also, he said, the food now is really excellent.

Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., has accepted an invitation to discuss political and legislative activities of Congress at the June 18 breakfast session of the national Coal Association's 46th anniversary convention in Washington.

Plans for Pennsylvania's mammoth road-building program—including the controversial Midcount Expressway in Delaware and Montgomery counties—will be discussed May 28 when the Pennsylvania Highway Information Association plays host at a luncheon for the state's congressional delegation.

Pennsylvania May Hold Answer To Wheat Referendum

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania could be the key state in a referendum May 21 that will decide whether the nation's wheat growers will have marketing controls on the 1964 crop.

Only wheat producers may vote in the referendum. However, this year for the first time in the long history of the controversial control program small producers will be eligible to vote, provided they register before midnight May 13.

In the past only producers of 15 or more acres of wheat could vote on controls. This year producers of less than 15 acres may vote, if registered. The larger producers automatically are eligible to vote.

Needs Two-Thirds Vote

It takes a two-thirds vote nationally to put the 1964 control program into effect, just as in the past. Traditionally, Pennsylvania producers have voted heavily against controls. But their opinion just as regularly has been wiped out by overwhelming support for the program in the major wheat-producing states.

If two-thirds or more of the wheat producers favor marketing quotas, it would mean:

—wheat acreage allotments would be assigned. Pennsylvania's allotment would be 48,386 acres, compared to 523,258 for the 1963 crop.

—wheat prices would be supported at about $2 a bushel for certificated wheat; at $1.50 for non-certificated wheat. Certificates would be given to farmers for 80 per cent of the normal yield of their acreage allotment. Unused certificates could be redeemed at a rate of 70 cents a bushel.

Same Allotments

If marketing controls are rejected: —the same acreage allotments will be imposed.

—farmers keeping within their allotment will be eligible for price supports at 50 per cent of parity—about $1.25 a bushel at current prices.

—producers exceeding allotments would not be eligible for price supports.

In last year's wheat referendum only about 900 Pennsylvania wheat growers voted, out of an estimated 7,000 producing more than 15 acres of wheat.

The state agricultural stabilization and conservation committee reported that wheat acreage allotments would be assigned to nearly 70,000 farms, though not all of the acreage would be planted in wheat.

The 1960 agricultural census showed that 43,827 Pennsylvania farms actually harvested wheat. With production of more than 13.7 million bushels of wheat a year, Pennsylvania ranks 15th among the states in wheat production.

Pocono Mt. Joint School Budget Creeps Over $1,000,000 Mark

SWITZWATER — A proposed $1,010,332 joint budget for the Pocono Mt. Joint School District will go to public hearing May 13 and be voted May 22.

After an increase of $1,676 over the 1963-64 budget (4.3 per cent), the proposed 1963-64 budget hit the $1 million mark.

The joint budget does not include rental payments of $168,000 made by the eight school districts to the Pocono Mt. School Authority.

The budget was tentatively approved April 18 and posted in all future schools as required by law.

It carries the following appropriations:

Administration, $34,000; instruction, including teacher salaries, $638,707; attendance service, $2,500; health services, $12,500; pupil transportation, $38,775; and plant operation, $52,900.

Also plant maintenance, $15,200; fixed charges, $58,000; student activities, $6,500; tuition payments, $1,000; and capital payments, $60,000.

The joint school committee voted unanimously to give a copy of the proposed 1963-64 budget to The Daily Record but refused to provide a copy to Donald A. Robbins, Sr. of Tannersville.

After Robbins asked for a copy of the new budget and a copy of a comparison of the new with the old budget used by the directors, the committee voted to adjourn.

"This means that you are refusing a taxpayer a copy of the budget," Robbins asserted. The directors answered that they are required by law only to post the proposed budget, not distribute copies of it.

Robbins said he wanted a copy he could take with him for study, since the posted copies cannot be removed.

Public Hearing

The public hearing of the proposed new budget will be held by the budget finance committee next Wednesday, May 15 at 8 p.m. in the joint high school.

The directors are expected to adopt the budget a week later.

Administration costs of $34,000 include salaries of $10,900 for Superintendent, Principal C. Willis Dunlap, and $6,000 for David E. Nelson who receives $4,300 as joint business manager and $1,700 as joint board secretary.

Instruction costs of $638,707 include $312,125 for teacher salaries; $32,780 for school principals; and $8,100 for Elementary Supervisor James G. Davenport.

Principals salaries include $9,450 for Lawrence L. Wile, principal of the joint junior-senior high school; $8,150 for Neil Polombo, assistant high school principal; $7,850 for Samuel Lee, elementary principal of Coolbaugh and Tobyhanna; and $6,700 for Loyd Peak, elementary principal of Pocono and Barrett.

Teachers salaries total $396,000 for elementary schools and $246,125 for high school.

Guidance counselor salaries are $7,500 for George W. Webb and $6,600 for Harry Wertheiser.

Pocono District Costs

THE Following summary of local district costs does not include receipts of $44,000 from a $40,000 anticipated July 1, 1963 balance and $4,000 reimbursement under the National Defense Education Act. When added to current expenses and capital outlay, the receipts make a total joint budget of $1,010,332.

Rocky's Stock Dips

Anti-Rockefeller politicians of both parties who are making the worst of his marriage after divorce were armed with sacred ammunition this week.

The Hudson River Presbyterian said it is planning disciplinary action against the Presbyterian minister who married Rocky and Happy Murphy.

The minister who performed the secret ceremony last Saturday will be called on the carpet for ignoring a Presbyterian rule that a minister get permission to marry anyone divorced less than a year. Rocky was divorced for 14 months, Happy for only one month.

Marriage after divorce will antagonize many voters. Discovery that the remarriage of two divorced public figures was not done according to church rules will add more voters to the list of those who are saying:

"I used to admire Rockefeller. But I don't any more."

The dip in Rocky's stock cannot be explained completely by bad reaction to his wedding.

He has been having his troubles in his party, in his legislature, and in his administration.

Never one to relish the infighting, promises and compromises of party politics, Rocky stands aloof from the machinery of his own party in New York State and has suffered for it.

Republican legislators in Albany fought him for eight weeks before cutting his $2.89 billion state budget by $178 million in cash and authorizations. Rocky threw a record budget at his party leaders and told them to raise the necessary money if they didn't like his new tax proposals.

After the New York State "battle of the budget," a State Liquor Authority scandal hit Rocky with national impact. His state chairman resigned before appearing before a New York County grand jury investigating pay-offs and political favoritism in the granting and withholding of liquor licenses.

The man Rocky appointed head of the liquor authority quit rather than testify against himself, and several authority aides were indicted for bribery.

A major article on the scandal in Life Magazine made it a national issue—one that hurts him more and more as the investigation proceeds.

Rocky's stock is dipping now for more than one reason.

Another Telstar

The successful launching of Telstar II is another step forward in the painstaking job of establishing a space communications system.

Although the corporation approved by Congress is proceeding with the problems of arranging for a public stock issue and the necessary staff, there can be no operational system until the satellites themselves are perfected and the best type of system decided upon. This requires more tests of the Telstar satellite, which now has had two successful launchings, and the high-altitude Syncom system, which failed to orbit properly in its first test.

Last year's Telstar I did more than transmit a few TV shows between this country and Europe. It was used for hundreds of tests in the transmission of telephone conversations, telegraphy, telephoto and facsimile signals.

This year's Telstar II also has more significance than the planned TV demonstrations, including the live telecasting of the upcoming manned orbital shot at Cape Canaveral. The communications test now will be resumed with new equipment designed to overcome the shortcomings that turned up in the initial satellite. The effects of radiation will be measured more precisely, and so will the relative advantages of the longer orbits.

IF ALL continues to go well with the satellite, Telstar II should advance the day when space communications will be commonplace. We're still at a point in space development, though, where these launchings are something to marvel at in the precision of the orbits and in the functioning of advanced equipment.

There's something special in a privately-financed communications satellite such as this. It symbolizes the fact that space research can be expected to pay practical dividends, over and above the value of satisfying our scientific curiosity about the true nature of the universe.—Harrisburg Patriot.

The Pennsylvania Story

Overburdened Legislators

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook

Overburdened Legislative Week — Pennsylvania's lawmakers really "hit the bricks" this week in what was unquestionably one of their most zealous legislative weeks of the 1963 session — particularly insofar as the 210-member House of Representatives was concerned.

House members turned up Monday — but adjourned that day without taking up any new business out of respect for Rep. David M. Boies, retired dentist and Clairton lawmaker who died over the week-end. . . . House GOP majority leaders had planned a recess for Tuesday anyway with the required 106 votes to pass the Scranton Administration-sanctioned 5 percent sales tax. . . . A shortage of hotel rooms knocked out that schedule.

Not until after its brief meeting Monday, the House simply gave up for the week and went home. . . . The Senate meanwhile went through routine Monday and Tuesday sessions.

Deadline Schizophrenia — With the current week "lost" insofar as House action on the tax program was concerned, Scranton Administration legislative leaders are fast getting a case of the twitches as they watch the hands of the calendar clock on the wall continue to go round and round.

Reason: only two "legislative working weeks" remain before the June 1 deadline Governor Scranton originally set for his tax program to go into effect — which in the legislative world is tantamount to no time at all. . . . Legislation requires three separate legislative days in the House and three in the Senate to pass — and all revenue-raising legislation must originate in the House.

Only two legislative weeks remain before the June 1 deadline: the weeks of May 13 and May 27. . . . The Legislature will be "out" the week of May 20 because of the primaries. . . . In other words, to meet the June 1 deadline, it's strictly a one-shot affair. . . . The House must pass the tax legislation next week — and the Senate the week of May 27.

Gubernatorial "Excursions" — As you look over the daily schedule of Governor Scranton, you'll find very few out-of-state excursions on the speaking or attendance circuit — somewhat of a contrast to the schedules of many a preceding Keystone State chief executive.

There's a reason for this. . . . A check with the front office shows that his gubernatorial nibs is insisting that all out-of-state travel on the part of state executives be for a good, sound reason — or else. . . . The same applies to the Governor himself.

Almost without exception you'll find that Scrantonian forays into other states — few and far between though they be — have one prime point: to "sell" in one way or another more business for Pennsylvania or at least plant the seed. . . . For example, tomorrow Mr. Scranton will be the main speaker at the meeting of the President's Advisory (business) Council — in Virginia — where will be found top business and industry people from throughout the nation and where some economic seeds in favor of Pennsylvania will be planted if W. W. Scranton has anything to do with it.

Upcoming Deadlines — Tuesday (May 14) is the last day before Primary on which applications for civilian absentee ballots may be delivered to chief clerks of county boards of election (April 26 was the last day for county boards of election to begin to deliver or mail absentee ballots for the primary). . . . May 17 is the last day for the chief clerks of county boards of election to post civilian absentee voters' lists.

When is the Primary Election? . . . May 21.

MOTHER'S DAY

Did you ever dream of that perfect life, A mother comes nearest to attain?

Always sharing her unbearable strife, With the God who allays all her pain.

Mother whose presence in darkness days, Adds much to the family's gain;

Whose winsome smile sends each on his way,

To conquer and help win him fame.

Whose deft hand helps solve a difficult choice,

With a straight-forward rap on the rear;

Or that same hand needed as balm for a sore,

Lovingly helps wipe away a sad tear.

We give floral tributes to this "flower of life,"

Expressing love for her Christian ways;

For without this dear mother and dutiful wife,

Mother's Day is merely "a day among days."

Let's proclaim this day her "day among days,"

Helping to make her joy so complete;

Showing by our love in the best-mannered ways,

That we mean "she just can't be beat."

—John A. Rinkev

I once took a trip to micro land,

Guess what I did see?

A family of neutrons Sitting in a tree.

I continued on and took the road

That led to the master lab,

But a dreadful thing happened That made me very sad.

I tripped over a proton

And stepped on a neutron

And before I could get to my feet,

All the atoms were crowded around me

Saying, "who's this with such big feet?"

When I stood up they just stared at me,

I asked, "what have I done?"

The oldest neutron stepped up and said,

You old son of a gun,

YOUR guilty of squashing my son.

U.S. Bonds Stolen?

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Those $7.5 million in negotiable U.S. bonds that vanished from the Federal Reserve Bank in San Francisco were stolen and not "accidentally burned" as claimed by bank officials.

That is the belief of the special House Banking subcommittee investigating this still - unsolved mystery.

The probers will not formally pronounce this judgment in their preliminary report later this month. All they will say is, "There is not enough evidence now to know what happened to the bonds. . . . They were either stolen or burned."

But privately the House investigators are leaving no doubt they are convinced the securities were pilfered.

The Senate Internal Security Committee, which also is digging into this affair, is checking information that some of these bonds are in an American-owned "numbered" account in a Swiss bank. Reputedly they were deposited around the time of the Cuban missile crisis last fall.

While the three House probers, headed by Representative Henry Reuss, D-Wis., will withhold their verdict on what happened to the seven $1 million and five $100,000 bonds, they will blister both Treasury and Federal Reserve officials for the lackadaisical and inept handling of the search for the securities.

The Treasury will be rapped, for inexplicably failing to promptly and forcefully use all federal and local resources to uncover what had happened to the bonds.

The Federal Reserve Board will be castigated for (1) secret- ing the loss of the bonds for more than six months, and (2) failing to notify other banks to be on watch for them. San Francisco

Federal Reserve Bank officials will be blasted for the astonishing lack of security that prevailed there in the handling of bonds running into the hundreds of millions.

A retired custodian of the bond vault told the investigators he could have walked out with half its contents.

At the time the securities disappeared, he was vacationing in Reno, Nev.

Come And Get It—This startling disclosure was brought to light by Representative Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, in questioning Clarence Bertram, vault custodian who retired last November after more than 41 years' service. Following is their revealing discussion:

Vanik: "When you left your vault every day, were you subject to any examination or scrutiny by anyone in the bank?"

Bertram: "No."

Vanik: "You could walk out of the bank with almost anything?"

Bertram: "With half of the vault in my pocket."

Vanik: "And no one would have stopped you or questioned you?"

Bertram: "No."

Vanik: "There was no one on duty to question you or scrutinize you?"

Bertram: "No."

Vanik: "So you could walk right out of the bank without any inquiry at all?"

Bertram: "Yes."

Elliot J. Swan, president of the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank, placed the disappearance of the $7.5 million in negotiable federal bonds as between May 29 and August 8 — the dates when they were deposited and then asked for by another Reserve bank.

But the loss was kept secret until this March. Several weeks ago this column revealed that the story was then leaked by the Federal Reserve to a hand-picked San Francisco newsmen when Representative Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, got wind of the affair and demanded a full explanation.

During a routine study of the minutes of the New York Federal Reserve directors, Patman came across a notation that the bank was absorbing part of a $7.5 million loss caused by the destruction of government securities in the San Francisco bank. This write-off was approved by the New York directors as Reserve banks pro-rate members' losses.

Baffling Nonchalance — The probers have ascertained that when the Treasury and Federal Reserve finally "invited" the Secret Service into the case, only three agents were assigned to it.

Also that a private company was employed by the Secret Service to give lie detector tests to 18 bank employees. These polygraph examinations took place between August 27 and September 25, and drew a blank, according to the report of Thomas Hansen, special agent in charge of the San Francisco office.

That was the end of the Secret Service inquiry.

The FBI has never been brought into the case — although it has followed it closely.

Even before the House investigators have submitted their preliminary report, Chairman Reuss has bluntly told Federal Reserve officials he is unable to understand their seeming casualness. He made no bones of being highly critical of their lack of concern and action.

"I am not at all impressed with the investigation that was made by the Secret Service," Reuss told the Reserve bankers. "I feel that any loss involving the very considerable amount of $7.5 million in securities requires that every resource of both the federal government and local police authority be brought in."

"The help that local authorities might have provided in tracing a possible solution of the disappearance of these bonds could have been extremely helpful. I cannot feel satisfied that the brief and casual investigation that was made was complete or handled in a manner I would consider satisfactory on the basis of the testimony that was submitted."

As retired custodian Bertram testified, it was possible to walk out of the vault "with half of it in my pocket."

Social Whirl — Three of the four American officers who commanded in the historic Battle of the Coral Sea, first U.S. Naval victory in the Pacific in World War II, were honor guests at Australian Ambassador Beaulieu's garden party commemorating the 21st anniversary of the famous battle. They were Admiral Frank Fletcher, who commanded the U.S. Task Force, Admiral Thomas Kinkaid and Vice Admiral William Ward Smith. . . . Peruvian Ambassador Berckemeyer has been in Washington so long (15 years) that he had to give two parties to take care of his host of friends. He gave one party on Tuesday and the other on Thursday and both were "sell outs," with throngs of diplomatic congressional and other guests.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Psychosomatic Medicine

A young married woman the mother of two children, lived in constant terror of the violent temper tantrums of her alcoholic husband. When he was in the army, she found temporary peace in his absence.

After a year, he was permanently assigned to a camp in a distant state and he enthusiastically arranged for his wife and family to join him.

His telephone call to his home became a one-sided, empty conversation when his wife suddenly became speechless and voiceless. She could not utter a sound. A friend had to explain to the husband that his wife could communicate only by writing.

Examination of her vocal cords and larynx by a specialist did not show any evidence of physical disease. There was no tumor or infection. Still, she could not bring her vocal cords together to produce any sound.

This is a remarkable phenomenon of the vocal cords. Experts know that there is no physical disease of the larynx that can keep these vocal cords so separated.

Psychologic Basis

Although there is no known physical disease, there is an important psychologic basis for this unusual condition. It is called "hysterical paralysis" of the vocal cords and is accompanied by total loss of the voice.

When this young woman was faced with the reality of her husband's return to her home, she immediately developed a total inability to speak.

Her doctor's astute awareness of the psychologic aspects of illness made it possible for this woman to get immediate psychiatric help. With this specialized support, her speech returned.

When the psychological processes were explained to her and to her husband, they both sought and found the expert care that, ultimately made their marriage a happy one. The structure of the entire family was therefore preserved by the recognition that there are both psychic and organic factors present in all disease.

This story illustrates the concept of psychosomatic medicine.

To best understand it, the word must first be separated into its component parts: psyche and soma, meaning "mind" and "body." The combination implies that there should be no separation between them. The mind and the body are one.

Mind And Body

In all disease there is a constant relationship between the mind and the body.

Body disease is called by various names: organic, physical or somatic. Psychic disease, invariably has some emotional overtone. One does not exist without the other.

More and more doctors are being trained to recognize the gentle balance of the mind and the body. Psychosomatic medicine means total medicine and the total treatment of the total human being.

SEEK ADVICE

Psychological problems exist in every society and in every culture. No group is free from the pressures of modern day living.

When problems seem to be insurmountable, when tensions advance uncontrollably, seek the advice of someone trained in the special art of understanding.

When you speak of your problems they fall into their proper place. The important ones stand out ready to be solved. The unimportant ones fall by the wayside, where they belong.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Dear Abby

Give Him Credit!

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who says, "Honey, I don't know what to get you for Mother's Day. Here is $50 — go buy yourself something?" I felt so bad I cried all night.

WET PILLOW

DEAR WET: Your husband may not have much imagination, but at least he remembered; and he put his money where his mouth was. I hope you never have anything more serious to cry about.

DEAR ABBY: I was married before and so was my husband. We've now been married three years and are very happy. I happened to mention that I had two graves here in Pittsburgh, bought and paid for. He said when he dies he wants to go back to West Virginia. Now, he left West Virginia years ago because he didn't like it, so how come he wants to go back there to be buried? I told him we belonged together and he said if I felt that way about it I'd be buried in West Virginia with him. I don't care anything about West Virginia. I want to be buried in Pittsburgh. I am 37 and he is 39, which is too young to be worrying about this, of course, but I would like to get it settled. What is your opinion?

PLOT PROBLEM

DEAR PLOT: Does HE have plots bought and paid for in West Virginia? If not, he might just as well get down to earth in Pittsburgh.

E-burg Joint School Board Adopts $1,273,029 Budget In 10 Minutes

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg Area Joint School Board last night finally adopted a $1,273,029 budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The final vote was 10 to one with only Irving Sommer, of East Stroudsburg, voting against the

Oak Lane Road Gets Priority

CANADENSIS — The rebuilding of Oak Lane got top priority last night as Barrett Twp. Supervisors earmarked funds from the county gas tax refund for the project at a meeting at the Barrett School last night.

Oak Lane, a thoroughfare, will be built on a 24 foot wide, base, with 18 feet of black top surfacing. The supervisors discussed installation of the water line along Oak Lane and will request Robert Hawk, manager of the Cresco Water Co., to complete installation of necessary lines before the road rebuilding is begun.

Any remaining funds from the gas tax will be used for Lake Road, an extension of Upper Seese Hill Road, they agreed.

25-Mile Speed Limit

The supervisors requested that Ordinance 46 be read. It establishes a 25-mile an hour speed limit on Prices Drive, Laurel Pine and Oak Lane. Passed to secure the health, safety and welfare of the residents, they urged all motorists

Phone Firm To Expand Free Calls

LAKE ARIEL — The Bell Telephone will expand the toll-free calling area of its Hamlin and Lake Ariel exchanges in 1965. William F. O'Hara, a member of the Pennsylvania Public Commission, announced yesterday.

O'Hara said the PUC has no plans at this time to poll subscribers of the two exchanges to determine whether they would be willing to pay an increased monthly fee which would accompany an expansion of local calling service.

Bell outlined to the PUC a plan whereby Hamlin subscribers would get toll-free calling rights to Moscow, Scranton and Olyphant and Lake Ariel customers would be able to call Scranton and Olyphant without tolls.

Monthly increases of 50 cents to $1.25 for residence telephones and from $2.50 to $4.50 for business phones would go into effect at the same time.

Vaccine Total Now 27,364

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Sabin Oral Vaccine campaign in Monroe County rose to 27,364 doses yesterday when 599 more persons received the vaccine at General Hospital of Monroe County.

Tonight will be the last opportunity for Monroe County residents to obtain the first dose of the three-type vaccine, Dr. Hans-Helmut Brehm, director of the program, announced.

It may be obtained at the hospital from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Vaccine Given County Guests

STROUDSBURG — Dr. John Martucci, West End physician, reported yesterday to the Monroe county commissioners that all guests at the Monroe County Home, Kellersville, have received first doses of Sabin Oral Vaccine.

Bangor Piano Contract Let To Firm In Eastburg

BANGOR — Jay Sleep Co., East Stroudsburg was awarded the contract for two new pianos at its low bid of $790 at a meeting of the Bangor Area Joint School Committee Wednesday night.

The resignation of Allan G. Miller as director of the senior high school band was tabled for later consideration after board members expressed deep satisfaction with his work with the organization. Miller had asked to be relieved of his duties to spend more time on graduate study in the field of reading.

It was announced that plans have been completed for the convention of Northampton a case of rebellion and I treated it as such," Burrows told the board.

He added that the suspensions were discussed at a faculty meeting and the faculty unanimously approved his action. The five were suspended for the first three days of this week. The incident, which involved the singing of "Happy Birthday" in what Burrows said was a "flat, unharmonious" manner and what the cafeteria monitors described as the five's "verbally showed disrespect for us," occurred last Friday. The board approved the action.

The joint committee authorized its transportation committee to advertise for bids for a 66-passenger bus and a truck to be used by the school cafeteria.

The first is Legislative Route 169, Section 14-B, between Interstate Route 81-S, the Penn-Cam Highway, and Mt. Pocono and will include work in Tobyhanna, Coaling and Pocono Townships and Mt. Pocono Borough. The highway is also known as Route 940.

beaten by two escaped convicts, a spokesman for the hospital said.

Also he was served his first food since he was admitted. His meal consisted of soup, tea and jelly.

His son Russell of East Stroudsburg indicated excitement when he learned of the latest news of his father's condition.

"The news about dad being up in a wheel chair and eating some food for the first time since the accident is a good sign to us that he is making a speedy recovery."

"Mother, Mrs. Mae Everett, 58, was released from the hospital Wednesday. She will remain in Brunswick for several weeks. We were told yesterday that the criminals, (Stoney Barrett, 23, Columbus, Ga., and Ronald Corsey, 30, of Savannah, Ga.) will go to court Monday and the trial is scheduled to start the following Monday," he said.

Chester Everett, another son who remained in Georgia, telephoned Russell Wednesday and informed him two former residents of the Pocono Mountains had visited their father at the hospital.

Chester identified the visitors as Mr. and Mrs. William Allen who formerly resided in Bushkill, and Calvin Georgy, a former East Stroudsburg resident.

Both families offered any aid the Everetts might during their stay on Brunswick. The former residents now reside in the Brunswick area.

Russell said, "Dad has received many baskets of flowers. Two came from Stroudsburg. The Pilgrim Holiness Church and the Sunday school of the church each sent a basket to the hospital."

The Everetts were attacked by the convicts at a roadside park when the Everetts stopped for water. The convicts admitted that they had waited at the park with the intention of robbing and exchanging cars with tourists.

The convicts were escorted from a state prison camp near Milledgeville, Ga. They were recaptured three hours after escaping the Everetts.

2-Fold Goal In Blood Drive

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Red Cross Bloodmobile's visit to Monroe County will be at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church Monday. Hours for donating will be 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

This particular visit of the unit, under the auspices of the Monroe County Chapter, has a two-fold aim. First, it must make its quota of 125 pints of blood, and, secondly, it must try to make up a deficit of 65 pints of two recent visits which lagged behind the assigned quotas.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton, pastor of the church and chairman of this visit, has enlisted the assistance of other area clergymen and volunteers to accomplish the aim. They have been working by personal contact, but it is felt that even this will not produce the required number of donors.

Success of the program will be mainly dependent upon the number of walk-in donors who appear at the church on Monday. These will be the ones who have it in their power to put the program back on the top where it belongs, drive officials said.

Appeals have also been made to a number of the industrial plants in the area to provide time off for their employees to attend. At the moment, the response to this is undetermined since the number who give also depends on the willingness of the employees. The program is completely voluntary.

In stressing the importance of cooperation by local industries, Joseph G. Deffenha stressed the need:

"Industry is the backbone of our nation and has the manpower to fulfill our obligations to the blood bank," he said.

The chairman continued, "The Bloodmobile has been coming to Monroe County for many years, and we have maintained our priority position through these years. Recently, donations have lagged just enough to place the blood program in jeopardy."

"We must maintain our top priority at the blood center at Wilkes-Barre. This requires the cooperation of every able-bodied resident of the area," he concluded.

Mr. Jones May, head of the department said that the award is made to a freshman math major for outstanding achievement as selected by the mathematics faculty.

Eastburg's Guard Train For Virginia June Sortie

EAST STROUDSBURG—First Lt. George P. Brodhead, commanding officer, Company C, Pennsylvania National Guard last night announced that East Stroudsburg-based unit will participate in two week summer training program at Camp A. P. Hill, Va., from June 1 to June 15.

Company C, of the 1st Battalion, 28th Division, is scheduled to leave East Stroudsburg armory early June 1. Members of the company will get aboard trucks and motor march to the camp.

Lt. Brodhead said, "This will be the third year we will make the trip to the Virginia camp and back to East Stroudsburg by truck." Previously, they went by bus to Indian Gap.

The first week will be devoted to field-firing rifles and crew-served weapons include the Browning machine guns, 106 mm recoilless rifle, 81 mm mortars and the 3.5 inch rocket launcher. Individual weapons include the M-1 and Browning automatic rifles, M-14 and the .45 cal. automatic pistol.

During the second week, Company C will participate in Army Training Tests. The tests will consist of live firing of the weapons during the execution of squad, platoon and company tactics in the field.

Radar Training

Lt. Brodhead added, "Some of the men attached to the company headquarters platoon will be trained in the use of radar for ground surveillance. Radar will become a part of our organization's equipment and will be returned to the local armory with the unit."

"Something new also has been added," by the National Guard of this state," he said. "We now have a program for new enlistment of former servicemen allowing a one-year trial period, rather than the customary two or three-year enlistment."

Lt. Brodhead continued, "The program is open to men up to 60 years of age who have previous military service either on active duty or in the reserve components, provided there are unit vacancies. He emphasized, "We have about 30 vacancies."

Anyone wishing more information on this program or regular enlistment should telephone Sgt. Albert Kollar at 421-8940 or stop at the East Stroudsburg armory any weekday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Proper Strip Mining Helpful

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An official of the Pennsylvania Conservation Association said yesterday the state should encourage a healthy coal strip mining industry.

Conservation director W. G. Jones said in a paper presented at the closing session of the annual coal convention of the American Mining Congress that the industry has benefited Pennsylvania in a number of ways.

"In many instances," Jones said, "the industry has left the land in better condition and more productive than it was prior to striping." He added:

"It has aided in flood control. It has immensely benefited wild life and game throughout the state by the planting of shrubs and game food."

"All these things of benefit to the state are aside from the important economic position and good benefits of employment."

Health Menace

HARRISBURG (AP) — The cramped and crowded quarters of the State Motor Vehicles Bureau has been officially cited as a health menace.

A report by the Labor and Industry Department found the bureau in violation of the state women's labor law for having conditions "injurious to the health" of its employees.

The Revenue Department, parent agency of the Motor Vehicles Bureau, was ordered "within a reasonable period of time" to reduce overcrowding, provide adequate ventilation and lighting and reduce noise to acceptable levels.

Area Women Open Drive To Keep Cancer Drug Alive

GREENTOWN—Four area people will go to Washington, D. C. Monday to meet with congressional representatives and the National Cancer Institute officer to seek aid in keeping Kribben on the market and preventing the Food and Drug Administration from taking the drug off the market.

Making the trip will be Mrs.

Anna Mazza, Mrs. Grace Frick, both of Greentown; Mrs. Elsie May, Hamlin, and Mrs. Francis Thomas, Honesdale.

Mrs. Mazza urges anyone interested in participating in the trip or a patient using the drug to telephone her at Greentown 226-3334.

She said, "Several thousand cancer patients have been treated with this medication which frequently relieves pain. It also extended many lives and has reduced malignancies."

"The delegation will urge that the medication, under threat of suspension by the Food and Drug Administration, be licensed so they may survive," she emphasized.

Two Homes Offered

ACCORDING to one estimate Americans are building vacation houses at the rate of about 85,000 a year, and it's easy to see why. First of all, a family retreat in some watery or wooded recess, at your disposal whenever you want to use it, is ideal either for planned vacations or spur-of-the-moment weekend trips. Secondly, if the house is more than just a rustic fishing shack it can serve as a retirement home. House of the Week readers get their choice of two such homes today, designs J-72 and J-73. A study plan of both homes comes with an order for either.

Roomy J-72
This is a three-bedroom cottage but its high-pitched roof allows room in a partial attic for a fourth bedroom. The bedrooms are not large, but adequate; the living facilities are designed for year-round comfort.

A large deck, part of it covered, provides excellent outdoor living. A service door leads from the deck directly to a shower so there's no sand-tracking through the house. A door separates the shower from the rest of the bathroom.

Students To Run Bangor Affairs

BOROUGH — In celebration of Government Day today, pupils of the Bangor Area Junior and Senior High Schools will run the borough. Monday student-elected officials attended the meeting of the Bangor Borough Council to get "the feeling" of public offices. Supervised by Earl Lutz of the high school faculty, the members of the borough government were introduced to the council by David Longcor who will serve as mayor.

Walter Warrick, council president conducted the meeting and he and Mayor Quintus LaBar welcomed the students to the meeting. In other business, the following bids were accepted by council: on fuel oil to Tolino Oil Company at the rate of 12 cents; to the Portland Sand and Gravel Company for stone and a variety of figures according to size used and to Stelz and Bush for the installation of a new oil burner system in the Youth Center at their bid of $292. There was one other bidder for the work, Leroy Nickolaisen who bid $338.

Henry Thomas, chairman of the sewer committee reported that the balance in the sewer account was $33,839.78; 1306 permits had been issued; $101,200 had been received from sources for 2,034 units and that 1306 units had been connected to date.

John Caswell, chairman of the street committee, announced Bangor Gas Company is indebted to the borough for $1070 and Bangor Water Company for $220 for street repairs.

Approval also was given for a present settlement of $200 with the C. and T. Affiliates for apparent damages to borough streets up to the recent inspection. This consideration will cover a three-year period as repairs become evident.

Leonard Gruppo reported that 27 property owners on Market St. will receive notices to repair their sidewalks.

Council approved the nomination of Benjamin Albert as fire chief and Russell T. Brown as assistant. Albert reported that in 1962 the department answered 24 fire calls in Washington Twp. and 10 in Plainfield Twp. Upon the recommendation of Albert, council took the initial steps to establish a fire prevention code for the borough. The matter was placed in the hands of the safety committee, fire chief and solicitor.

New Fire Alarm Box
Miles Heller, chairman of the safety committee, reported a new fire alarm box placed at 7th and Chestnut Sts. Initial steps were taken by council to purchase a new fire truck pump for the Rescue Fire Company. The present pump being used is presently 28 years old, it was reported.

The safety committee and the fire chief were instructed to make a study of the needs of the company for a pump and to have specifications ready no later than 30 days. Council will review the specifications and the recommendations as soon as they are prepared and then ask for bids. Hopes were expressed that the new pump might be placed in service by December of this year since at least 140 working days are usually required for its construction.

It was noted at the meeting that James Hocke is no longer serving in the post of Civilian Liaison Director of the borough. In order that this post might be maintained, Stanley Souders of Washington Township and Donald Davy were nominated as director and assistant. Their names were ordered forwarded to the state headquarters for approval.

Mayor Quintus LaBar reported the following receipts for the month of April: licenses, $182.50; fines $108.50; building and digging permits $9.00 and parking meters, $24.35.

Bills totalling approximately $6,000 were approved for payment. The following balances were reported in the borough accounts: general fund, $1,828.48; and State Highway Fund, $3,119.19.

S-Burg Firm World's Fair Tour Center

STROUDSBURG — Holiday Convention and Tour Service, Inc. of Stroudsburg has received the official designation by the New York World's Fair as a "Ticket and Information Center." The firm is located at 33 No. Seventh St.

W. V. Nixon, president of Holiday, announced that the company has sold 56 cities to date with the company's "Club Plan." The plan is a profit-sharing tour plan that provides for service clubs, women's clubs, chambers of commerce, to sponsor low cost tours to the World's Fair in 1964 and 1965.

Nixon stated, "Our sales force now covers a major part of six states and will be expanded rapidly to cover some 20 states. We confidently expect to sell out our 'Club Plan' to more than 1000 organizations in as many communities."

The World's Fair opens in April 1964.

New Aircraft Sent To Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. Air Force is introducing into Japan this month the F100 fighter, one of the world's fastest and most versatile tactical aircraft. U.S. 5th Air Force headquarters announced yesterday.

The first F100s have already replaced the F100 "Super Sabres" at Kadena Air Base, Okinawa, the announcement said. The initial F100s to be assigned to the 5th Air Force in Japan were flown to Okinawa from the United States late last year.

Pay Hike Granted

ROME (AP)—Millions of Italian workers got automatic pay raises this week. The increases came under union contracts linked to the cost-of-living index, which rose 6.10ths of 1 per cent in March.

Pen Argyl Stuent Awarded Lafayette Eddy Scholarship

EASTON — Robert W. Reed, Pen Argyl, is the recipient of the 1963 William W. Eddy Memorial Scholarship awarded by Lafayette College's chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Presented annually in memory of the late Prof. Eddy, who taught history at Lafayette from 1923 until his death in 1948, the award is given to a senior who plans to make college or university teaching his career and who exhibits high intellectual promise.

The award amounts to $500. The AAUP chapter at Lafayette finances the award largely through funds raised by the production of an original musical comedy, the Faculty Play, staged bi-annually on the campus.

A senior majoring in physics, Reed plans to work toward a Ph. D. in physics at the Pennsylvania State University following his graduation from Lafayette in June. He has been awarded a half-time graduate assistantship by the university.

Heartaches In Racial-Torn Dixie

EDITOR'S NOTE — Reiman Morin, who has covered the civil rights campaign from its beginning, has won two Pulitzer prizes as an Associated Press reporter—one for reporting the Little Rock integration crisis. Wednesday, he visited a Juvenile Court judge's office in Birmingham, getting the human side of the city's racial troubles.

By REIMAN MORIN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Here, in a Juvenile Court judge's office, is the whole story of Birmingham today, the Negro side, the white side, the heartbreaking human side.

Judge Talbot Ellis sits behind his desk. He has crisp gray hair, a clean-cut profile. He speaks in a low, kindly voice.

On the other side of the desk is a 15-year-old Negro youth, Grobeck Freer Parham. He is big for his age. He was arrested five days ago for participating in the demonstrations which have been wrecking the city.

A small carved sign on the desk bears the motto, "Prayer Changes Everything."

Behind Judge Talbot is the boy's mother, Alleen Parham. She is tall, nice-looking with an intelligent expression. She has come to Juvenile Court, where children under 16 are being held, to get her son released.

This is the dialogue between the three—

"Let You Go"

Judge: "Grobeck, I'm going to let you go. Your mother must have been mighty worried when you couldn't find you. Why did you tell the officer you were 17? That's why they put you in jail instead of bringing you here."

Boy: "I said I was 15."

Judge: "Well, anyway, I'm letting you go. By the way, you have an unusual first name. Where did you get it?"

Mother: "That's Dr. Walsh's first name. My husband named him 'Grobeck.' (It develops later that Dr. Grobeck, Walsh, chief of medical services at Loyd Noland Hospital here, took the boy's father into his

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

In the gentle torpor induced by the lilac-scented May heat wave, I'd be quite contented to let the news today tell its own stories: Romances, Mother's day, and new babies. Except the news which show, today, like the submerged tenth of an iceberg, is such a small proportion of the stories all lined up and ready to go.

Babies, for instance: Why, there's a stack of pink and blue cards almost big enough to play solitaire with. Mostly blue for boys. For some reason they keep running out of blue cards at the hospital this year much faster than pink—which should be exciting for the girls for Senior Proms in 1980.

Most excited right now, however, are the new grandmothers. Joan Place was telling me that 15 minutes after her new grandson was born her daughter called her up to tell all about him.

"Why, I remember I had to stay in the hospital 15 days, and it was the third day before the doctor would let me 'dangle' my feet," she recalled.

"Dangling" isn't the only thing that's changed about babies. Styles in names change, too. Nellie and Jennie and Elmer and Horace and Harold and Claude are practically never used. Neither are the Mary Janes, Elizabeth Anne's and Betty Jo's of a few years ago, or last year's Tammie and Ronald and Ricky.

For girls, Kimberly has come to the fore strongly; and names like Alan and Scott and Brian for boys. But like a rose by any other name baby's still smell the same in a combination of talcum powder, baby oil, and faintly sour milk that no perfume manufacturer could duplicate.

LETTERS AND NOTES

AS THE BOXING controversy continues to flare in our area—and across the state and nation, the letters keep coming in to our desk. Following is the latest:

I am a student at Temple University as well as an amateur boxer. Several weeks ago I was a guest at one of your local resorts. While in the Pocomo, I happened to pick up a copy of your newspaper which contained an article attacking the sport of boxing.

I am a firm supporter of legislation to tighten control of boxing. I do not believe that you gave the sport a fair shake.

In your article you say that boxing causes the death of many young men; therefore, you want it banned. This "death-ban" raised my curiosity, so I looked up the official records for deaths in several sports, including boxing. These statistics follow:

Football, 32; auto racing, 42; Little League baseball, 8; boxing, 12. Unlike the other three sports, boxing was taking place every day of the year. These facts point out that the death toll, percentage-wise, in boxing was very low.

Please print this letter so that the public can use this material in making their judgement for or against my favorite sport.

Thank you,
PETER M. WOLFINGTON

Dear Pete,

What kind of percentages are you talking about, my friend? I hope you are not majoring in mathematics.

For instance, your statement, "... boxing takes place every day of the year. These facts point out that the death toll, percentage-wise, in boxing was very low."

Well now, if boxing does take place every day of the year, how many participants do you have? Only two for one fight, right? In one Little League game (and Peter, do you have any idea how many Little Leaguers play every day throughout the country?) there are at least 18 participants for each game (nine to a side, you know). That number alone is usually higher up in the 20s, too.

In football, you have 22 players for each game (providing, of course, there are no substitutions—and when was the last time you saw a game when there weren't any subs?) A conservative number of players in one football game runs in the low 30s—and that's plenty conservative.

I agree you have a good point with auto racing, however. This is a sport where brave men get behind the wheels of high-powered racing machines and all too often end their lives in a concrete wall. There have been many opponents in the past, too, of this sport. But the big difference between the two seems that auto racing has not yet been infested by hoodlums. And if you should ever happen to turn pro, you'll soon know more hoodlums than college classmates.

You say you are a "firm supporter of legislation to tighten control of boxing." Well, don't you honestly think, then, that something must be radically amiss with the sport by admitting legislation is needed? I note you limit this statement to boxing alone. In other words, you have already admitted that the other sports—even the ones in which you tried to draw a comparison are A-O-K.

Random Notes: Pocomo Mountain High School's Ryan turns compare almost as closely in basketball statistics as they do in appearance. In their four years of high school, Norb compiled a total of 1,111 points; brother John a total of 1,029. In their last year of play, Norbert tallied 370; John had 343.

From Wichita, comes this grid info on Harold Myers—a very complimentary comment by head coach Chelo Huerta:

"Harold was one of the finest looking halfback prospects I had ever seen when I watched him play in the All-America High School game and he has more than lived up to expectations thus far."

The six-foot, 150-pound speed merchant is being counted upon heavily this year by the staff of the University of Wichita.

Cavaliers Even Track Record

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Cavaliers of East Stroudsburg High School evened up their season track record at 2-2 here yesterday with a 71 2/3 to 18 1/3 victory over visiting Delaware Valley High School.

Winning 10 of the 12 events, the Cavaliers of Coach Martin Martz chalked up the easy victory by gaining clean sweeps in four of the events.

Jim Wilkens and Bill Miller both were double winners for the East-burgers. Wilkens won the 100-yard dash in 11.1 seconds, and the 220 in 23.8 seconds.

ESSC Unbeaten In Lacrosse

JENKINTOWN—Coach Carole Musher's East Stroudsburg State College lacrosse team finished their first season of play undefeated with their fourth straight victory here yesterday over Beaver College, 13-7.

Glenn Simons led the scoring parade with five goals and Sue Call added three for the winners. Other ESSC scorers were Georgiana Knorr with two, and Gail Davis and Betsy Dunbrack—each with one.

The seven goals scored by the ESSC team was the most tallied against the Warriors this season. East Stroudsburg finished the season with a total of 48 goals against only nine by the opposition.

Cubs Win Sixth Straight, 3-1

CHICAGO (AP)—Southpaw Dick Ellsworth, recovering from a muscle spasm in his left arm, hurled the Chicago Cubs to their sixth straight victory with a 3-1 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday.

The victory was the ninth in 10 games for the Cubs, who climbed into second place in the National League.

Ellsworth, a lanky 23-year-old who missed his last pitching turn because of arm trouble, was a doubtful starter until game time but turned the Pirates back on two hits.

The Cubs moved in front quickly when they scored a pair of unearned runs in the first inning. With one out, Ken Hubbs struck out but reached first when the third strike got by catcher Jim Paganoni. Billy Williams tripled Hubbs home and then scored on a sacrifice fly by Don Pate.

A Glaring Absentee

Open Is Out For Hogan

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A near-record 2,410 names were dropped into the hopper Thursday for the 63rd National Open Golf Championship, but there was one glaring absentee—Ben Hogan.

For the first time in 25 years—ever since his opening try in 1938—Hogan, a four-time winner, was not entered. Now 50 years old, he is recovering from a bursitis operation at his home in Fort Worth, Tex.

"It's a little sad not to see Ben's name listed," said Joseph C. Day, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association, in announcing the close of the entry list.

Recalls Note
"He even entered in 1949 after his near-fatal automobile accident," Day said. "I recall a note from him at that time which said, 'Miracles sometimes happen, and I want to be ready.'"

Hogan won his first Open in 1948 and added titles in 1950, 1951 and 1953 after his life almost was taken in an auto-truck collision on a Texas highway. He entered last year but pulled out after a bursitis attack.

Jack Nicklaus, 23-year-old wonder boy who won the Open last year at Oakland, Pa., in his first year as a professional, heads the field which will compete at The Country Club in Brookline, Mass.

College Girls
Bow In Tennis
WEST CHESTER—East Stroudsburg State College yesterday suffered a 4-1 defeat in a girls tennis match here yesterday.

The ESSC team gained the only win of the afternoon in the first doubles event when Gail Cowan and Barbara Brooks combined for a 6-2, 6-4 win over Sue Thompson and Veronica Riggs.

June 20-22.
The tournament honors Francis Ouimet, who as an obscure amateur defeated the great British stars Harry Vardon and Ted Ray over the same course in 1913—fifty years ago. The victory is credited with popularizing golf in America.

The entry list, fourth largest in history and only 65 below last year's record, will be whittled to 100 with qualifying tests over 79 courses in 37 states.

Fifty-seven local qualifying trials May 27-28 and 13 sectional playoffs June 10-11 will determine the 129 players who will tee off on June 20 along with 21 exempt players—making a total of 150.

Top List
Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas while shooting ahead of Arnold Palmer this year in the race for money honors, tops the exempt list.

The group getting a free ride into the tournament proper also includes the four other most recent Open winners, Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer, Bill Casper and Tommy Bolt; Gary Player, the PGA titleholder; Labron Harris of Stillwater, Okla., the National Amateur champion, and Richard Davies of Pebble Beach, Calif., winner of the 1962 British Amateur.

Mets Rally In Ninth; Top Phils

NEW YORK (AP)—Tim Lincecum drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single and relief pitcher Johnny Klippstein uncorked a run-scoring wild pitch as the New York Mets rallied for three runs in the ninth inning Thursday to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2.

Cal McLish appeared on the way to his first victory of the season as the Mets came up for their last turn at bat, trailing 2-0.

Ron Hunt beat out an infield hit, and raced to third on a single by Ed Kranepool. Jack Baldschun replaced McLish and walked Frank Thomas to load the bases. Harrison promptly tied the score with a two-run single to center.

Herbert Zeroes Yankees, 2 To 0

CHICAGO (AP)—Ray Herbert waved his shutout ray for the fourth time this season, hurling the American League-leading Chicago White Sox to a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees Thursday night with a two-hitter. The 33-year-old right-hander, backed by shortstop Ron Hansen's two-run double in the second inning, stretched his string of scoreless innings to 27 before a crowd of 32,405.

Herbert, gaining his fourth victory in five decisions, gave up a single to Clete Boyer in the third inning and a leadoff single to Joe Pepitone in the fifth. The only other base runner was Bobby Richardson, who walked to start the fourth.

Pari-Mutuel Betting Is Awaited In Pennsylvania

(Third and last in a series)

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — In 1962 more than $28 million was wagered on harness racing at pari-mutuel tracks. Starting June 7 at Liberty Bell in North Philadelphia and June 28 at The Meadows near Washington there will be legalized pari-mutuel betting for the first time in Pennsylvania.

Under the pari-mutuel method, the only method of wagering sanctioned in the United States, racegoers wager among themselves—as the term applies. The track acts merely as a stakeholder.

There is a legal commission, varying from state to state. It is deducted from every dollar wagered and is divided between the track and the state. The balance goes to those holding tickets on entries finishing first, second or third according to their selection.

Gets Five Percent

In Pennsylvania, the state treasury will get five per cent of the total amount wagered and the track 10 per cent. Eight-five per cent of every dollar wagered will go back to the bettors.

For example, if the total mutuel for one night at The Meadows amounts to $200,000, the state will get $10,000 and the track $20,000. Of the $20,000 the track gets 45 per cent of (this amount) goes into purses.

Wagers will be accepted a mutuel windows in denominations of $2 or larger. There are also $5, $10 and $50 windows at most tracks. You may wager on your horse to win, place (finish second) or show (finish third).

When you wager to win, you collect if your horse finishes first. If you wager to place, you collect the place price if your horse finishes first or second. And if you wager to show, you collect the show price if your horse is first, second or third.

Here's how the payoff prices are figured:
The win price is the result of dividing the amount of money wagered on the winner into the total win pool, less lawful deductions.

The place pool is divided between the two horses and each half is apportioned to ticket-holders in proportion to the number of tickets that are held.

The show pool is split in three divisions and apportioned according to the number of valid tickets.

Separate Pool
There is a separate wagering pool conducted on the first and second races. This is known as the daily double. To win the play-off must select the winner in both the first and second races.

Many important factors go into handicapping. They include the horse's best record time, his actual time in recent races, the length of the track, quality of his opposition, his driver's ability, track conditions and his past position.

Your best bet is to buy a program sold at the track. It contains complete information about each entry and its racing record. About the only thing not in the program is how to pick a winner. However, harness horses are considered to be extremely consistent in performance and harness racing runs more closely to form than any other type of racing. In case you're interested—favorites win about 37 per cent of the time, on the average.

Mets Obtain Fernandez

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shortstop Chico Fernandez was sold Thursday to the New York Mets and veteran catcher Hobbs.

Casualties included Frank Lary and Gil Hodges. Lary, who only two years ago won 23 games for the Detroit Tigers, was optioned to Knoxville of the Sally League. The veteran right-hander, fighting an ailing arm, hopes to return to the Tigers within a month.

Certain to be on the sidelines for at least a month is Hodges, the 39-year-old Met first baseman. The right-handed slugger, who has been recovering slowly from a knee operation, was placed on the disabled list to make room for Fernandez.

The Mets obtained the 32-year-old shortstop in a three-team deal that sent pitcher Larry Foss to Milwaukee, along with a bundle of cash. The Braves had purchased Fernandez from the Tigers.

Mary Buffalord

The Mets got down to the 25-player limit, including optioned first year pitcher Grover Posell, by sending infielders Marv Throneberry and Ted Schreiber to Buffalo of the International League. Both are subject to 24-hour recall.

Throneberry, regular first baseman last year, had appeared in only 14 games, nearly all as a pinch hitter, and was batting .111. In other 11th hour moves, Minnesota optioned a pair of relief pitchers to the minors, sending Lee Stange to Dallas-Fort Worth of the Pacific Coast League and Fred Lasher to Charlotte in the Sally League.

Baltimore, in addition to selling Landrith to Washington, gave Pete Burnside, veteran southpaw, his unconditional release and optioned pitcher Les Narum to Rochester of the International League.

The Tigers swapped players with their Syracuse farm club in the International League. They sent outfielder Purnell Gandy and pitcher Bob Daulton to the Chiefs in exchange for third baseman Don Wert and pitcher Mickey Lonich.

Two Go

Cleveland sent outfielder Willie Tasby and pitcher Jackie Curtis to Jacksonville and returned catcher Bob Lipski to Little Rock.

No sooner had Milwaukee acquired Foss when they sent the right-hander pitcher to their Denver farm club of the Pacific Coast League. The Braves also optioned Ty Cline, outfielder obtained from the Indians, to Toronto, and sold Lou Johnson, another outfielder, to Syracuse. The Braves recalled pitcher Don Schneider from the Chiefs.

B. R. Registration

STROUDSBURG — Bill Frear, president of the Monroe County Babe Ruth League, announced yesterday that all boys who have not registered must report to the Monroe County YMCA between 9 a. m. and noon. This includes both former players and new players.

Don't Gamble On It!

By William A. Doyle

Q. A few years ago my sister and I bought 100 shares of stock in an engineering company, at $15 a share, shortly after that stock was first offered to the public. The company went bankrupt and is now in the process of reorganization. But we still get financial statements from the trustees who have been put in charge of the company's affairs. This stock is still quoted in the over-the-counter market, at very low prices. Would it be advisable to buy 1,000 shares?

A. You come close to asking if it would be advisable to spend a week end at the Las Vegas dice tables. Buying stock in a bankrupt company is always a straight speculation.

Usually, it's worse than that — just a case of throwing money away.

However, there have been cases where companies have come out of bankruptcy and where the stocks involved have paid off handsomely. But that has been the exception, rather than the rule.

My advice to you is to study those statements you receive and get as much information as possible about that company. If you are convinced that things are looking up to the point where the company may be able to pay off its debts, come out of bankruptcy and become a profitable thing again, then you might buy some more of that stock.

But don't put any more money into it, unless you are ready, willing and able to lose that money if things don't work out.

Q. You constantly advise people to "investigate before they invest." You tell them to check with brokers, read a list of financial manuals, study a mutual fund's prospectus. Do you honestly believe that many people know the first thing about any stock before they buy?

A. Certainly. There's no getting around the fact that many do not. But the people who "buy blind" are usually the ones who have unhappy experiences.

But the mail to this column proves to me that more and more people want information before they invest. Educating the public about the world of finance is a long, slow process. It will never be complete. But more people all the time realize that to be successful investors they must be informed investors.

Q. I own shares in a mutual fund and have always taken my dividends and capital-gains distributions in a definite number of shares, rather than in cash. I have always reported the dividends as "dividend income" and the capital-gains distributions as "long term capital gains" on my Federal income tax return.

Now, I am told by friends that there was no need to do this. They say they don't report their mutual fund dividends and capital-gains distributions and won't have to until they redeem the shares they receive. Can you set me straight?

A. You are straight. You have been reporting these things correctly.

It's your friends who are wrong. (I almost wrote crooked.) And they'll find out how wrong they are — when the Internal Revenue Service catches up with them.

Furthermore, it won't be too long before the revenue men do spot what your friends have been doing. The new "taxpayer numbering system," with its electronic data processing machinery is designed to spot such things.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)
